XLIIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

ANOTHER HITCH.

Striking Railroad Employees Refused Re-Employment.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—SENATE.—An anti-Chinese memorial was presented from San Francisco. Major General M. C. Butler, from the Legislature of Connecticut for coast defenses, and from that of Iowa in relation to the national board of health. Mr. Logan's Army bill was taken up and disposed of. At 4:30 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 5:35 p. m. adjourned.

House.—A number of small bills were introduced under the call of States. Resolutions looking to an investigation of the border question were introduced. W. F. Woodford, of Kentucky, introduced a bill granting a pension of eight dollars a month to all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the late war, and providing artificial limbs for those in military equivalent for those Confederates who made them. The Blair educational bill, identical with the Blair bill, was referred to the Committee on Labor by a vote of 138 to 113. This reference was made to the committee reported to the House. The bill relating compensation of U. S. Attorneys, Marshals, and Commissioners was taken up and pending action when the morning hour expired. O'Hara, of North Carolina, introduced a bill to constitute an immediate compensation resolution providing for an investigation by the House of the Carrollton (Miss.) murders. Mr. Regan, of Texas, objected on the ground that Congress had no constitutional power.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—SENATE.—A resolution was introduced for certain information from the Interior Department in reference to the proposed removal of the Spokane Indians from their reservation. The Army bill was taken up and discussed by Messrs. Logan and Teller. Mr. Pinchard introduced a similar bill for the Lookout Mountain Territory bill. Mr. Voorhees introduced a bill for the admission of Montana as a substitute for his former bill, the new measure being an enabling act. Mr. Vance gave notice that after the morning hour to-morrow he would call at the office for the repeal of the Civil Service law.

House.—Mr. Guenther rose to a question of privilege, and denied he had any understanding with the Postmaster General to be appointed to the Post-office and Post-roads. Several committee reports were received. Consideration of the bill to regulate the compensation and duties of U. S. Attorney, Marshals, and Commissioners was deferred. Pending action the morning hour expired.

The Post-office appropriation bill was discussed. During the debate there was an exchange of complimentary remarks between Mr. Guenther and the former expressing the opinion that there were better men than the latter in the penitentiary, while the latter had no doubt that his co-legate's superiors had been having in prison. Mr. Teller, of Michigan, moved to refer a resolution for an investigation of the Carrollton massacre. Mr. Regan objected, notwithstanding that Barksdale, of Mississippi, requested that there might be no objection.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—SENATE.—A petition was presented to the Senate for pension for an ex-soldier discharged from the revenue service in Georgia on account of politics. Mr. Logan's bill to increase the efficiency of the army was taken up and considered. Speeches were made by Messrs. Logan and Teller. Mr. Voorhees introduced a bill for the admission of Montana as a substitute for his former bill, the new measure being an enabling act. Mr. Vance gave notice that after the morning hour to-morrow he would call at the office for the repeal of the Civil Service law.

FOR OUR EXCHANGES.

This is the ninety-fifth day of the legislative session and what has the State got for it? A hole in the Treasury where the money used to be.—Courier-Journal.

Dr. Rose, of Palmyra, O., has perfected a long-distance telephone transmitter, by use of which the faintest whisper is said to have been heard over a circuit of 878 miles. As this occurred in Ohio, honest people will make the necessary allowances in the computation of the distance.—Courier Journal

Another New County Wanted.

[Frankfort Capital.] If the Legislature has no objection, we have about fifty acres of fine marsh land out here a piece which we would like very much to incorporate as a new county. No name has been decided on but you may call it Billread, Bartjenkins, Bobtyler, Samburett, Samnunn, Jimwinn, Speakerfut, Damfino—anything you please so you fix it up as a new county.

"We, the citizens, would be satisfied if the laws of Kentucky would place the convicts at constructing railroads, canals, and levees, and abolish the act authorizing working them in coal mines."

The foregoing extract is from the "demands" made by the miners and citizens at Greenwood. To retain the sympathy of the public, Labor must be just in its demands; and, certainly, if it be injustice to the miners to displace them with convicts, it would be equal injustice to displace laborers on railroads, canals and levees, and fill their places with the inmates of the penitentiary. If the miners at Greenwood seek justice, they must be prepared to do justice; not to seek their relief at the expense of other classes of labor.—Covington Commonwealth.

At Fort Worth, Texas, an effort was made Saturday to take out a train over the Missouri Pacific road. Sheriff Maddox, with twenty armed deputies, guarded the train, while 1,500 persons had assembled owing to the Sheriff's threat "that he would send the train out or die." Two miles south of the city, the posse was attacked and a regular battle ensued, about 100 shots being fired, resulting in the killing outright of special officer Sneed, and the fatal wounding of special officers Fulford and Townsend. Three of the attacking party were thought to have been wounded also. The train returned to Fort Worth carrying the killed and wounded officers. One in position to know, states that "no train will be allowed to pass over the Missouri Pacific until the demand of the strikers for arbitration has been acceded to."—Courier-Journal.

The Frankfort Capital summarizes the provisions of the bill, passed by both Houses of the Legislature, to regulate examining trial in the State. The bill provides that county judges shall have an examining court, exclusive jurisdiction in all cases of homicide; trial to be held at the county seat of the county in which the offense is alleged to have been committed. Persons charged as above shall first be taken before the county judge, if absent or disqualified, then before the magistrate living nearest the county seat, or before the police judge of the county town; if both magistrate and police judge are absent or cannot preside, then any other magistrate may act as an examining judge. One justice may constitute an examining court, except in cases above named—one justice shall not except the county judge or nearest magistrate cannot do so. The act not to be construed as limiting the jurisdiction of the county judge to homicide. County judge shall receive no fee for examining trials. Other judges two dollars for first and one dollar for each additional day, in no case exceeding four dollars for one trial. Nothing in this act shall deprive any police judge, mayor, or city judge of any jurisdiction they now have in regard to holding examining courts. Takes effect from passage of the bill.—Owenboro Inquirer.

CONKLING ON CLEVELAND.

(Philadelphia Times.) Myron Bangs is a man of character and position up in the interior of New York. He has banks and is generally a man of affairs. He is a Stalwart and also a warm friend of Mr. Conkling. He has been down here visiting the lawyer and statesman. He admires and talks unreservedly of his interview with the ex-Senator. "Mr. Conkling," says Mr. Bangs, "takes the ground that, in the present differences between the President and Senate, the legislative body will get defeated. Mr. Conkling declares that Mr. Cleveland is a man of iron and great determination—in fact, a second Andrew Jackson in courage. He thinks," so Mr. Bangs says "that not only the Senate, but the country has under-rated Mr. Cleveland's strength of character and intellect." Mr. Bangs reports Mr. Conkling as saying that in his judgment the Senate cannot maintain its position and must yield or be involved in a constant controversy with the Executive during the balance of his administration. Considering the relations of the two men, this is regarded as authentic testimony as to Mr. Conkling's position upon the interesting question now pending between the legislative and executive branches of the government.

Be Warned

In time, Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 49 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

By lack of open air exercise, and the want of sufficient care in the matter of diet, the whole physical mechanism becomes impaired during the winter. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the proper remedy to take in the spring of the year to purify the blood, excite the liver to action, and restore health and vigor.

Hall's Hair Renewer, cleanses, brightens, and invigorates the hair, and restores faded or gray hair to its youthful color and lustre. People with gray hair prefer to use the Renewer, rather than proclaim to world, through their bleached locks, that they are becoming aged, and passing on to decay.

To Emigrants.

T. P. A. C. & O. Ry.
Ashland Ky.

Last Sunday, as the saw-boat of Sol Williams had started up Tug, an employee named Wm. Hughes stepped across a shaft which was in motion, when his long overcoat was caught by a bolt, jerking him backward with such force that the back part of his head was crushed sufficiently by the fall to cause almost instant death. His remains were taken to relatives at South Point, O., Monday.

The following persons were registered at the Chataroi Hotel Saturday: G. Milstead, Portsmouth; James Hatcher, Pike; Ambrose Mullan's, Floyd; M. W. Hine and Francis King, Lowell, Mich.; G. F. Taylor, W. H. Vanderbilt, Thos. A. Garrigan and W. D. Williams, Cincinnati; John T. Johnson, Round Bottom; John Finlayson, Miss Daisy Weddington, H. H. Marrs, B. C. May and R. H. Weddington, Prestonsburg; J. P. Allison, J. R. Anville and R. C. Allison, Mo. Pond; Wm. Moore, Meadville, Ky.; H. K. Biggs, Alphorettta.

It is a bad thing to make up a fight, but a good thing to make up a quarrel; but it is better to fight than to have your Grocer palm off any other Soda or Salterus on you than J. Monroe Taylor's Gold Medal, manufactured at 113 Water St., New York. We are glad to see that a good many of our merchants are selling them, notwithstanding they can't make so good a profit on them as on other kinds. If any one wants to get up a fight with us, let them try and put some other kinds of salterus or soda on us besides J. Monroe Taylor's Gold Medal.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

W. W. Reed druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louisa Pike, Bartons, Randolph Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with Consumption, and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's new Discovery for Consumption, and began dying of it. In 6 months time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

One hundred and one cattle infected with Pleuro-Pneumonia were killed in Harrison county on the 10th ult. and charged up to the State at $10 per head. It is stated that this killing stamps the disease out in this State, but nothing is said of the depletion of the State Treasury.—Licking Valley Scrocher.

The democracy of the 16th Judicial District have a candidate in the person of Judge Brown, worthy of their heartiest support. His past life affords his unflattering loyalty to the party, and fealty to its time honored principles. In the hour of its need he was no "sunshine soldier" or summer patriot but a hero in the fight for its supremacy. He has been true and faithful to all the trusts committed to his keeping, and we want to see a faithful discharge of party duty by his triumphant election.—Licking Valley Scrocher.

Mr. Wahamaker's Plan.

Judge Calib W. West, of Cincinnati, Ky., has been appointed Governor of Utah.

Next Saturday is the appointed time for holding the precinct conventions in this county.

A bill has passed the Lower House of Congress, giving pensions to the surviving soldiers of the Mexican War.

Advertising that is well done is cumulative in its character. It is like the compounding of interest. An advertisement in a daily paper one day will, in all probability, make a good return to the merchant who has the goods the people want at the right price; each successive advertisement that he puts gains an impetus and influence from the original one and so it counts up until the name of the firm gets what is equivalent to the "good will" of a successful business, besides deriving the direct profit from immediately sales caused by advertising.

Ton divertise well, a merchant should give as much care to his newspaper space as he does to any other department of his business. As a general thing a merchant can well afford to spend in newspaper advertising from one-third to one-fifth the amount of all his other total expenses. If a man in business talks as earnestly through his newspapers when he is addressing one or two hundred thousand people, simultaneously, as when he is talking to one customer, he cannot fail to make a success of newspaper advertising."—Philadelphia News.

President and Secretary.
[Carp in Cleveland Leader.]

Manning and Cleveland are built the same way. They look so much alike that they are often taken for each other, and they were known at Albany as the two Dromios. Manning's sickness has called attention to the condition of the President and his habits of life. Cleveland works all the time and takes very little rest. He rises early, dresses, washes and shaves himself and then sits down to read the newspapers until breakfast time. Between 8 and 9 he has his breakfast, and he eats moderately. After breakfast he does not exercise at all, but goes immediately to his office, and sits down to work. He looks over his private letters, and answers such as cannot be intrusted to others. He does not use a stenographer; but pushes the pen himself, turning off sheet after sheet of smooth manuscript as fast as his fat hand can travel over the paper. Before he is through with these his time for public business arrives, and callers begin to come. Many of these are prominent and influential, and the President has to think well how he treats them. Each has a different story to tell, and a different subject to discuss. The President's mind is on a continuous strain, and such a strain as would set wild the ordinary thinker. At 11 o'clock there will be a hundred office-seekers ready to call upon him, and every other morning questions of state policy are to be discussed in the Cabinet. At 1 o'clock the President leaves his office and rushes down to lunch. He eats like a Wall-street broker, and then after five minutes of shaking hands with the visiting throng in the east room he rushes back into his office and pounds away until near nightfall. Now and then he takes a ride in the afternoon, and he did do this regularly for a time. He has his dinner early, and after it goes back to his office and works away far into the night. He does not go out to receptions or dinners. He spends little time calling upon his Democratic friends, and you do not hear of leading statesmen going up to the White House and having a jolly evening with the President, as has been the custom in days past. It would be better for the country if Cleveland were married. His wife would get him away from his work, and there would be less danger of his breaking down.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits loss of appetite, general debility, disorders of head, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle at R. F. Vinson's Drug Store.

NEVER CAME BACK.

How George Washington Punished an Annoying Trespasser.

George Washington was always ready for a fox hunt. As in his younger days he had ridden with Lord Fairfax and the Fairfaxes of Belvoir, so later, when he was master of Mount Vernon, he and his friends were always out in the season, and when night came, the party would meet at one house or the other, for a merry supper, to be off again before the hounds early the next day.

In a letter describing Mount Vernon, Washington speaks of it as "one of the finest rivers in the world; a river well stocked with various kinds of fish, at all seasons of the year." The borders of the estate were washed by ten miles of tide-water, and the whole shore was one entire fishery. In the season of canvas-back ducks, also, Washington was out with his fowling-piece early and late. The story is that he had been much annoyed by a lawless fellow, who came without leave to shoot on the estate. He came over from the Maryland shore, and hid his boat in one of the creeks. One day Washington heard the report of a gun, and guessing it to be that of this man, who had more than once been warned to leave, he sprang on his horse and rode in the direction of the sound. He pushed his way through the bushes just as the man, who had seen him approach, was pushing his boat off. The poacher raised his gun, and aimed it at Washington, who spurred his horse at once into the water and seized the boat before the man knew what he was about. Then Washington, who had a powerful arm, seized the fellow and gave him a sound thrashing, and was never troubled by him again.—Horace P. Scudder, in St. Nicholas.

SHEEP STORIES.

How Little Lambs Are Mystified by Their Sheep Mothers.

James Hogg, the shepherd poet, has related many interesting incidents in his experience. Among these is that the sheep's sense of hearing is so acute that she can distinguish the cry of her own lamb among a thousand others all bleating at the same time; and the lamb is able to recognize its mother's voice, even though it be in the midst of a large flock.

In relation to the mystification of the lambs over their dams after the latter had been shorn, he says while the sheep were being shorn, the lambs would be put into a fold by themselves, and the former be sent to join their little ones as soon as the operation of shearing was over. The moment a lamb heard its mother's voice it would hasten from the crowd to meet her. Instead of finding the "rough, well-clad mamma," which it had left a short time before, it would meet a strange and most deplorable creature. At the sight of this it would whine about, uttering a most piteous cry of despair. Soon, however, the sheep's voice was heard again; the lamb would thereupon return, then once more bound away, and sometimes repeat this conduct for ten or a dozen times before it fully understood that the shorn ewe was in reality its mother.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

Awful If True.

"We are selling a good many false bangs," said a hair-dresser.

"For ladies?" inquired the reporter.

"No, for young men. Bangs are all the rage now, and every young fellow must have one. Many of them are bald, or their hair is too thin on the forehead, so they call on us to help them. We make a bang that can not be distinguished from the genuine article. It is fastened on with wires, and when neatly combed looks very nice. A bang should come about half an inch short of the eye-brows, and should be evenly cut. It should never be worn with full beard, as it contracts the face too much. It is most effective with a drooping moustache."—N. Y. Sun.

A young Philadelphia lady whose voice had been much admired at home, went to Paris for a year's study. When she returned the change in her name was noticed to be far beyond that in her voice. From plain Hattie Eddy she had become Henriette Edica.—Philadelphia Press.

—A vessel which recently encountered a terrible storm in the Atlantic lost several men and its wheel-house by the sweeping of great waves over the deck. The captain thereupon had oil emptied into the sea, and, though the storm continued, the waves were stayed and the crew enabled to repair the damage. Several experiments of this character within the past two or three years have proved very successful and it is probable that future steamships will be equipped with an oil-distributing apparatus.—Chicago Current.

Relieved at Last!

We know a gentleman in this county who, six months ago, was almost a hopeless cripple from an accident. He was unable to walk, and could not even cross the room, used crutches, and said himself that he had little if any hope of ever recovering. We saw him in our town last week, walking about as lively as any other man, and in the finest health and spirits. Upon our inquiry as to what had worked such a wonderful change in his condition, he replied that S. S. had cured him. After using a dozen or so half bottles of S. S. he was able to get up and walk about, and is a happy, healthy man. He is none other than Mr. E. B. Lambert.—Byronia Telephone.
